

Jones Gill LLP

The law firm of Jones Gill LLP was formed in 1998 in Houston, Texas by partners Michael D. Jones and Lee S. Gill. Although the firm provides general, commercial transactional and litigation services to its clients, the primary emphasis of the firm's practice is on oil and gas matters.

Our attorneys have extensive experience in Texas and Louisiana oil, gas, and energy-related transactions and litigation, including acquisitions and dispositions of producing properties, energy loans, title examination, trials and appeals in both State and Federal Courts in Texas and Louisiana. Our attorneys have been employed by the largest oil and gas companies and by major independents as part of their past experience. Our firm has acted as counsel for small to large independents in title examination, due diligence and acquisitions. We have represented both buyers and sellers in multi-million dollar acquisitions and divestitures. We have extensive experience in representing both lessors and lessees in oil and gas leasing. Our firm has been at the forefront of recent seminal issues in oil and gas litigation, such as subsurface trespass by hydraulic fracture stimulation, measure of damages for surface damages, and pooling issues.

At Jones Gill, we pride ourselves on being the right size to maintain the responsiveness and attention our clients deserve and the sensitivity to costs they require, without sacrificing the experience and results they expect.

Mr. Gill believes in and practices creative problem-solving. In his thirty-two years of practicing oil and gas law, he's encountered most of the problems faced by exploration and production companies and professionals. Sometimes it's a difficult negotiation, and a kinder, gentler approach to get the parties to the win-win solution they desire is called for. Sometime it's a particularly complex contractual undertaking, where attention to detail and experience with the kinds of instruments (leases, farmouts, operating agreements, production acquisitions, sales or loans) is must-have. Often, increasingly fractionated titles and obscure title issues can jeopardize the massive investments needed to get today's monster wells drilled – and expose the venture to title failure. Too frequently, the collaborative approach fails, positions harden, and the vast sums of money involved seem to make it impossible to find a solution outside the courthouse. At those times, Lee's experience, judgment and people skills bring you the advantages you need to protect and defend your rights.

He has successfully represented plaintiffs and defendants in disputes involving Breach of Contract, Boundaries, Trespass, Conversion, Area of Mutual Interest Clauses, Pooling, Title Matters, Gas Contracts, Operating Agreements, Exploration Agreements, Lien Priority, Enforcement of Security Agreements, Deeds of Trust, Real Estate, and other issues, including several first-chair jury trials.

JOSEPH D. PORTER

Admitted to Bar: 1987, Texas.

PRACTICE:

Oil and Gas; Acquisitions, General Business.

EDUCATION:

University of Texas at Austin (B.B.A., 1979)
South Texas College of Law (J.D., 1987)

In Mr. Porter's thirty years of experience he has been a landman, an attorney in private practice, and an in-house attorney, as well as a business owner and a participant in various exploration ventures. He has built a reputation as an attorney who understands business and who can creatively apply business objectives to the legal needs of his clients.

Mr. Porter began his career running title, buying leases and doing curative work throughout East Texas. He then moved in-house, handling prospect generation and lease acquisitions, deal negotiations, joint operating agreements, farmouts, due diligence, property acquisitions and divestitures in Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico, California, and the Rocky Mountains. After graduation from law school, he was a commercial litigator, appearing in court almost daily, handling motions, bench trials and jury trials. In 1990, he joined the legal department of Pennzoil Company. His practical approach to legal issues, understanding of the business and ability to seek solutions to meet the needs of both, made him a valued and trusted advisor in both legal and business issues. He rose to the position of Vice President – Legal and Assistant Corporate Secretary of Pennzoil subsidiary Jiffy Lube International Inc.. He also served as a Vice President, Director, or Trustee of various other U.S. and foreign Pennzoil entities, during a period when the company grew to over $2 billion in annual sales with over 2,200 locations in the U.S. and Canada and over 5,000 employees. He was responsible for all litigation matters, business stock and asset sales and acquisitions, real estate acquisitions and leases, franchising, distribution and PMPA, antitrust, environmental, intellectual property, advertising, product licensing and sponsorships, and media relations. Since leaving Pennzoil in 2004, Mr. Porter has concentrated his practice in business acquisitions and oil and gas, and particularly in oil and gas leasing, exploration and development, and acquisition issues, oil and gas title opinions, and general commercial matters.

Mr. Porter is a member of the State Bar of Texas and the American Association of Petroleum Landmen. He is admitted to practice before all state courts in Texas and in the United States District Courts for the Southern District of Texas.
